"Two Nations Will Allow No Further Interference in Eastern Europe" IMPLIED THREAT TO ALLIES IN NEW RUSSO-GERMAN AGREEMENT

Soviet to Supply Nazis with War Materials and Oil

THE TEXT OF THE NEW RUSSO-GERMAN AGREEMENT HAS BEEN RECEIVED IN LONDON.
ALL INTEREST NOW CENTRES ON HOW FAR THE AGREEMENT WILL AFFECT THE PROGRESS OF THE WAR.
IT IMPLIES PARTIAL NULLIFICATION OF THE BLOCKADE OF GERMANY, WITH THE PROMISED SUPPLY OF RUSSIAN RAW MATERIALS FOR GERMAN MANUFACTURES.
The Agreement is now being considered by the British Cabinet. Mr. Chamberlain has had an audience with His Majesty the King.
NO NEW FACTORS
It is believed in London, says "Reuter's" Diplomatic Correspondent, that no new factors exist to-day which were not considered by the British and French Governments before the outbreak of war.
"It seems fair to stress that the situation has not altered in any respect or degree since the day when Britain made up her mind to honour her pledges to Poland," the Correspondent writes.

FOUR-POINT PACT
According to a Berlin message, quoting Herr von Ribbentrop, the following points have been agreed upon between the two totalitarian Powers:
1.—Russo-German friendship has been finally established;
2.—The two nations will allow no further interference in eastern European questions;
3.—Both desire that peace should be re-established, and that Great Britain and France should give up "a futile and hopeless struggle" against Germany;
4.—Should the "warmongers of the two countries prevail", Germany and the U.S.S.R. will know how to meet the situation.

PERTURBED CAPITALS

Nazi-Red Neighbours Fear Aggression

LONDON, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—Northern capitals have been greatly perturbed by the new Soviet-German agreement and the forced surrender of Estonia to Russia.
Opinions are held in Scandinavia that Russia is now firmly established as the chief power in the Baltic, where German influence will lessen.
However, comment in most neutral countries is carefully reserved.
Lithuania, Hungary and Rumania are the countries most interested in the latest developments.
The German frontier with Lithuania has been greatly extended. Hungary, through the former Czech province of Ruthenia, is now in direct contact with Russia.
A report from Budapest says that by noon yesterday Soviet troops had taken over the entire Soviet-Hungarian frontier.
Rumania has a buffer between herself and Germany but the buffer is Soviet territory.
Lithuania's Fate
KAUNAS, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—Far-reaching developments are expected from the German-Soviet and Soviet-Estonian pacts.
Lithuania will now have a much longer common frontier with Germany.

"REUTER'S" COMMENT
Commenting on these points, "Reuter's" Diplomatic Correspondent writes:
"Three aspects are very important.
"They seem to show that Nazi-Soviet collaboration is not so whole-hearted as it seemed at first glance.
"First, the new agreement does not provide for automatic assistance for Germany if the war continues, but merely for consultations.
"Secondly, at almost the moment of signing the pact, Russia entered a form of military alliance with Estonia, directed exclusively against Germany.
"Thirdly, Russia has renounced a large part of the booty offered in the preliminary partition of Poland—an area inhabited by 3,000,000 Poles—in order to retain the ethnical frontier of White Russia and the Ukraine."

NO OIL FOR BRITAIN
Another "Reuter" report, quoting Berlin sources, states that Soviet Russia is to stop oil supplies to Great Britain and her possessions.
Even if the report is correct, it will cause no concern to the Allies, as the Empire's total imports of Soviet oil in 1938 was less than 2 1/2 per cent. of all imports.
According to the Fascist Press, Germany has decided not to start an offensive on the Western Front, but will attempt to defeat the British blockade by air attacks.
This may be construed as a threat to the Allies but at least

FREEDOM REGAINED BY PRESS IN LONDON

LONDON, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—The complete reorganisation of the Ministry of Information, and the establishment of a new system whereby direct communication between the press and government departments will be re-established, is to be announced by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons on Monday.
It is understood that the necessary censorship news will be confined to a much smaller organisation than the present Ministry of Information.
This organisation will be on the lines of the press bureau established in the last war.
In broad terms, the effect of the reorganisation should be that the newspapers will again be free to obtain their own information, and in wide discretion will remain with them whether or not it should be submitted to the censorship.

New Advance along Moselle Sector

50 SAAR TOWNS FALL TO FRENCH
SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
PARIS, Sept. 29 (UP).—It is officially announced that the French forces have advanced approximately a mile along a five mile front in the Moselle sector, adjacent to Perl.
Fifty German villages have been captured so far.
The French forces are also progressing in the vicinity of Saarbrücken with minimum losses.
The immediate objective in the Saar sector is to command both banks of the river.
The French artillery batteries are placed so advantageously that the Germans have been compelled to order the evacuation of all the mining regions.
French reconnaissance planes, flying deep into German territory, have reported big concentrations of German troops behind the front.
Several French planes were damaged by fragments of anti-aircraft shells but all returned safely to their bases, the official report said.

12 U-BOAT VICTIMS

Great Achievement By Allies' Navies

PARIS, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—M. De La Tour, chairman of the Senate naval commission stated to-day the British and French navies had sunk 12 German submarines in less than a month.
This was greater than the speed at which Germany could replace the U-boats losses.
The Royal Navy had sunk ten U-boats and the French navy two.
Norwegian Ships Sunk
LONDON, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—Two Norwegian steamers bound for England were sunk in the North Sea to-day.
One was sunk by a German submarine and the other struck a mine.
Both crews were saved.
Another Norwegian steamer was unsuccessfully attacked.

Swedish Shipping At Standstill

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—Almost all Swedish shipping throughout the world is reported to be at a standstill owing to the submarine menace.
It is considered that the Swedish trade delegation to London will press for a more effective convoy system.
The sinking of the Swedish vessel Nyland by a submarine off the Norwegian coast is described as inexplicable, as she is a neutral ship which left a neutral port for a neutral destination.
Newspapers declare the naval war has apparently shifted to Scandinavian waters. This is possibly confirmation of Britain's claim that the anti-submarine measures are most effective.
The Nyland's captain said that while he was aboard the submarine he was convinced she was receiving full information from land.
Other men connected with shipping declare that the spy system operating is widespread and efficient. It is noticeable in Stockholm that certain foreigners, hitherto of economical habits, are now patronising the more expensive restaurants.
The Swedish correspondent of the "Globe" states 5,000 tons of iron ore consigned for the Liege Steelworks went down aboard the Nyland.
The correspondent states the sinking has created considerable feeling and shippers are suggesting a boycott of the German coast.

BRITISH PLANES RAID NAZI FLEET

LONDON, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—It is officially announced that R.A.F. units to-day carried out attacks on ships of the German fleet in the Heligoland Bight.
Despite formidable anti-aircraft fire, the attacks were pressed home at a low altitude.
Some of our aircraft have not yet returned.
According to the German news agency from Berlin, six British warplanes attacked units of the German fleet.
The report adds that the British attack was without result, and on the flight back, the British planes were attacked by German fighters.
There was a short air battle, and, it is claimed, five British planes fell into the sea.
German Claims
SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
BERLIN, Sept. 29 (UP).—It is officially announced that German pursuit planes brought down five British bombing planes in the North Sea after the British planes had unsuccessfully attacked German warships near Heligoland.

TURKEY & ALLIES

Mutual Aid Pact Agreed Upon?

ISTANBUL, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—The texts of the mutual assistance and economic agreements between Turkey, Britain and France have been finally agreed upon, according to persistent rumours in diplomatic circles in Ankara.
The reported signature to the agreements took place immediately after the return of Mr. Sarajoglu, the Turkish Foreign Minister from Moscow.
Responsible circles in Ankara do not impair Turkey's pledges to Britain and France, and that Turkey's agreements with Russia, Britain and France all aim at maintaining the status quo in the Balkans and the Black Sea, and of reassuring the security of the Mediterranean.
Admiralty Report
LONDON, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—The Admiralty has issued yet another statement concerning Tuesday's German raid on the Scottish coast. It is reiterated that no British warship was damaged in the raid.
The Germans originally claimed to have bombed the aircraft-carrier Ark Royal, and now they are saying that they bombed another aircraft-carrier, the Glorious.
The Admiralty can only repeat that no British warship has been hit in an air action.

Big Explosion Rocks Hankow

Loaded Bomber Crash Responsible?

HANKOW, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—Three terrific explosions rocked Hankow this evening.
Following the first explosion, which occurred at 8.30 p.m., a fire broke out at the Hankow aerodrome.
A second explosion occurred soon afterwards, and a third at 11 p.m.
The flames soon subsided, though small explosions continued.
Details cannot yet be obtained, but it is believed that a loaded bomber crashed when taking off.
Nazi Counter-Attack
PARIS, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—A German counter-attack near the Luxembourg frontier and on the Rhine in an effort to regain positions taken by the French on Thursday night, has been beaten back.
On the Moselle, front the French captured a wood east of Moselle, not much resistance being encountered.
The attack followed a heavy artillery barrage and many prisoners were taken.
French artillery and machine gun fire broke up an enemy attempt to retake a small hill commanding Saarbrücken, says "Petit Parisien".
Wintry conditions are now being met by the French and British troops are living in scattered bivouacs, as a precaution against air attack.
The men are taking life good-humouredly.
Artillery Fire
PARIS, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—This evening's communiqué issued by the French authorities stated that enemy artillery was firing in the region east of the Saar, notably south of Zweibrücken and Prüm.
There was activity on both sides by reconnaissance and observation aircraft.

VOLUNTEERS CANNOT RESIGN FROM CORPS

ONLY with the sanction of the Governor can members of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps quit the corps during a state of war, even if they have not been called out for actual military service, according to an ordinance published in the "Gazette" to-day, which amends the Volunteer Ordinance of 1933.
Hitherto necessity of securing the Governor's permission to leave the Corps has not applied during a state of war "between His Majesty and any foreign country".
The amendment proposed introduces this qualification.
Applies To All Conditions
Section 5 of the Volunteer Ordinance of 1933 permits volunteers to quit the corps on complying with certain formalities, except when on actual military service.
Under a section of the Compulsory Service Ordinance of 1939, members of the Hongkong Defence Reserve may quit only with the previous sanction of the Governor.
The object of the new bill is to require similar permission in the case of volunteers who may desire to quit the corps during the war, if not called out for actual military service.
Provision is also made for granting to such volunteers of leave during this qualification.

LATEST

Secret Military Alliance

PARIS, Sept. 29, (UP).—French Officials have announced the possession of documents purporting to confirm the existence of a Nazi-Soviet military alliance.
The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has issued a communique saying that Senator Henri Berenguer has "submitted sensational documents," confirming a Nazi-Soviet military alliance.
An official radio message to the people of France says: "After the signature of the Soviet-German treaty, we will be offered peace on condition that we renounce our free trade, customs and everything French and give the aggressors time to digest their prey."
"The acceptance of such peace would be tantamount to complicity and would be a moral weakness."

DEVIL'S ISLE SHIP MAKES LAST TRIP

No More Convicts To Be Sent

LA MARTINIÈRE, 3,718-ton hell-ship that has carried thousands of murderers and "lifers" across the Atlantic from France to the horrors of Devil's Island, will never put to sea again.

She is to be stripped of her steel bars and machine-gun fittings, and turned into a pontoon for use at the mouth of the River Loire at St. Nazaire.

The hell-ship has been sold by her owners, the French Line, because the French Government recently closed down Devil's Isle as a prison. They decided to leave the 8,000 prisoners still there, but to send out no more.

Originally, La Martinère was owned by a British company. She was made in West Hartlepool twenty-eight years ago as the Armanistan.

700 IN "CARGO"

As a floating prison she was able to carry as many as 700 criminals at a time on their seventeen-day journey to Devil's Isle, which the maps call La St. Joseph, formerly a leper settlement.

Convicts lived in steel cages in the holds throughout the voyage, and were allowed half an hour's promenade on deck each evening guarded by gendarmes carrying carbines and sub-machine guns.

There was never a mutiny in La Martinère. Jets in the roofs of the cages could spray steam on the occupants, and one gendarme operating a central turn-cock could quell the fiercest mutiny.

Max Miller's Home As Hospital

Comedian Max Miller has placed his recently-purchased country house, Woodland Grange, Ovingdean, Sussex, at the disposal of St. Dunstan's for the duration of the war. Sir Ian Fraser, chairman of St. Dunstan's, said: "We are very grateful to Mr. Miller for his generosity. We are converting our convalescent home into a war hospital, where blind men will receive surgical and medical treatment and learn to be blind." "If the experience of the last war is repeated we shall have to develop many annexes to the hospital," said Mr. Miller's house will be one of the most important of these.

His 7,000 Snaps Of Mars

THERE may be no animals living on Mars, but there are vegetables.

This is the view of Dr. V. M. Slipher, the American astronomer, who has just taken 7,000 photographs of the planet's surface from Bloomfontein observatory.

He chose Bloomfontein as the best place to observe Mars during the recent period, when it was at its closest to the earth for 10 years.

His photographs recorded every inch of the surface of the planet (says the British United Press).

Dr. Slipher said he had noticed bright spots moving on the surface of Mars between sunrise and sunset, which, he thought, must be cloud formations.

The shape of the northern ice-cap of Mars never remained the same, and every evening it assumed a different appearance, apparently indicating that hard frosts were occurring. At one time it melted completely.

Dr. Slipher said he had also secured valuable data supporting his theories that plant life exists on Mars.

Land Job Tame That's Why She Went To Sea

EVERYONE has heard or read of boys who run away to sea. Here is the story of the girl who tried to follow their example.

Dorothy Potter, of Pope's grove, Twickenham, Middlesex, lived her girlhood by the Sussex sea, mixing a lot with boys because she wanted to go to sea.

Two years ago her parents moved to Twickenham, and she found a job as a domestic servant.

Recently she became discontented, and then she disappeared.

TOO YOUNG

Her parents did not know where she was. She returned to tell them that, with a girl friend, she had spent the days at London shipping offices, searching for a job as a liner stewardess.

All the liner companies turned her down because she was too young.

She confessed to them that she was only 16. And so she had to go back to her home town. The sea did not wait her.

Then her brother, a liner steward, has just come home with the news that his line is employing girls at 17.

HER BIRTHDAY

Dorothy then celebrated her 17th birthday. It was the happiest birthday of her life. She asked her parents to take her to the head office of her brother's shipping line and try to get a job for her.

"I have always wished that I was a boy," Dorothy said.

"Then I would have been in the Navy when I was 14."

"Domestic work is much too tame for a girl like me. I cannot sulk the ordinary life of a suburban woman. I have always been a tomboy and hunkered after adventure."

Radium Is Buried

BURIED fifty feet below five London hospitals is £360,000 worth of radium—enough to kill half a million people.

But the radium is safe, the result of months of experimenting by the Radium Commission, who were anxious to guard against wartime risks and the possibility of any radium dispersing after heavy bombing.

All radium known to be in London was collected a few days before the war started. It was placed in brass containers and lowered into specially prepared safe deposits.

Similar precautions have been taken in the provinces, and it is hoped that every milligramme of radium in Britain will soon be accounted for.

Drowned Man Put In Iron Lung—'The Millionth Chance'

Brighton.

DOCTORS at the Royal Sussex County Hospital, Brighton, recently took a "million to one chance" to try to save a man who had been two hours dead.

Twenty-seven-year-old Alfred Hull, a bricklayer, of Tynemouth-road, Mitcham, Surrey, disappeared while bathing. Two hours later his body was washed ashore.

It was taken to the hospital. For three-quarters of an hour doctors tried to revive him with artificial respiration. He showed no sign of life.

At 7.20 p.m. Hull was placed in an iron lung. Officials said: "He is still alive so far as we are concerned. We will not give up hope. We are taking a million-to-one chance."

At 9.50 p.m., after a 3 1/2-hour fight for his life, Hull was taken from the lung. He was certified dead. The outside chance had failed.

ROUGH SEA

Hull got into difficulties while bathing in the rough seas near the Palace Pier.

His brother, Albert Hull, aged 34, who had tried to dissuade his brother from entering the sea, plunged into the water fully clothed in an attempt to save him. He could not reach him and was rescued by a boatman.

Hull and his brother had gone to Brighton for the day with a Croydon darts club.

This is the first time that an "iron lung" has been used in an attempt to save a drowned man.

RHEUMATISM MADE HIM A WRECK

A Different Man After 6 Months of Kruschen

Here is the true story of a man who underwent drastic treatment for rheumatism, and was left weak and ill at the end of it. He regained his health—not by painful, inconvenient methods, but by the simple, easy way of taking Kruschen Salts.

"The manager of a shop I dealt with was in bed for twelve weeks with rheumatism. When he returned to the shop he looked terribly ill. I naturally asked what treatment he had had. He replied: 'Everything—they baked me, electrocuted me, and I think, boiled me, and here you see the wreck for yourself.' Then I said: 'Have you tried Kruschen Salts?' He tried it, and in six months he was a different man, and thanked me every time I went into the shop."

—(Mrs.) J.L.T.

Rheumatism is commonly caused by deposits of needle-pointed, flint-hard, uric acid crystals, which lodge in the muscles and joints. Kruschen breaks up these deposits of toxic uric crystals and converts them into a harmless solution, which is promptly removed through the natural channel—the kidneys.

Five Hundred Farewells Without A Sound

FIVE HUNDRED people waved silent farewells when 117 deaf mutes left Liverpool-street Station recently to attend the deaf and dumb "Olympic Games" in Stockholm.

The only sound to be heard was the faint puff of the engine. Pretty girls thumbed and palmed "Don't forget to write" messages. The train was a minute late leaving because one of the 117 could not hear the guard's frantic whistling.

Mr. T. Perry, a normal member of the British Deaf Amateur Sports Association, travelled with the party. He said: "Thirty-two of our members are taking part in the sports, which will last for a week. They saved up for years to attend."

"Special arrangements are made for us by the Workers' Travel Association."

These deaf and dumb people make excellent cyclists and rifle shots.

"They are very keen on football," Mr. Perry said. "The referee has a whistle and a white handkerchief. When they don't see him blow the whistle, he waves the handkerchief." The secretary of the association is 22-year-old deaf-mute Mr. William Baird, who founded the first clubs for deaf and dumb people 45 years ago.

His son, Mr. W. Baird, junior, said: "He wanted to take these lonely people from off street corners and out of public-houses. They rely on him because he is cool-headed and adaptable."

VILLAGER TRIUMPH IN BATTLE OF THE ROADS

BRIDE WAS THREE HOURS LATE

Guests waited three hours in a synagogue at Stepney, E., recently for the wedding of Harry Mizler, former light-weight boxing champion of Britain, and Miss Betty Greenfield. Mizler was one and three-quarter hours late and the bride three hours late.

Crowds outside went away thinking the wedding had been postponed.

At the reception in a Peccadilly restaurant, Harry Mizler said: "There was a misunderstanding with the car-hiring firm. The cars took all the guests to the wedding but for some reason the bride and bridegroom were overlooked."

Franco Blow To Nazis

PARIS. IT IS LEARNED HERE THAT SPAIN HAS CANCELLED GERMAN CONTRACTS FOR RE-CONSTRUCTIVE WORK TO THE VALUE OF £1,500,000, AND THESE CONTRACTS ARE NOW TO BE OFFERED IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The Franco Government, in its anxiety to maintain neutrality, may decide to issue a formal denial of any special friendship with Germany.

Moreover, as a sequel to recent diplomatic conversations, it is understood that direct action may be taken near Bilbao, in northern Spain, where the Nazis are believed to have stored supplies for their submarines.

In the last war the U-Boats were understood to refuel in various hidden inlets on that coast, and a similar plan would seem to be a natural probability in the present conflict.

Cheers For Counsel Who Fought Case

THE battle of the roads, in which the villagers of Chalfont St. Peter fought Buckinghamshire County Council, ended at Beaconsfield recently with a victory for the villagers, the magistrates giving a verdict in their favour.

Residents of Commons Down Estate, Chalfont St. Peter, had appealed against the County Council's decision to make up the roads on the estate at a cost of £14,000, which the residents were expected to pay.

They are all working-class people, living in cottages ranging in value from £50 to £450 "in the most exclusive street" (Council's description).

To fight the Council they pooled their slender resources, briefed Mr. W. A. Fearnley-Whittingstall, the barrister, and produced an alternative scheme costing only £7,000, which they were willing to pay.

At the hearing Mrs. Mitchell said her husband earned only 50s., yet they were being asked to pay £59 road charges.

Mr. Thomas Springett, living in a hut costing £35 and receiving only 7s. 6d. weekly, said he received a bill for £73.

One Clear Light

THE DARKNESS which, beginning in the heart of a Continent, is inexorably blanketing out the whole of Europe, is lit by but one clear beam.

That is the firm and irrevocable determination of Great Britain and France that, come what may, they will not recede before the menace of force that is attempting to destroy the civilisation so painfully built up by centuries of suffering.

By this light the distracted statesmen and leaders of threatened countries may yet stumble out of the darkness.

Since the beginning of the war, Mr. Chamberlain in London and M. Daladier in Paris have again and again made it plain that there can be no retreat from the stand these two most powerful nations of the Old World have taken against tyrannical domination.

To us who know that the word of our Motherland, once given, cannot be doubted, it may seem superfluous to reiterate this determination, but it is a wise move. Others may think that the aggression by Russia could alter Britain's resolve, that the fate of Poland and the threat to the Baltic States and the trembling Balkans may create misconceived notions of our desire to continue the fight.

The light falls on eastern Europe, too, but as yet without revealing much there. Estonia, apparently, has fallen victim to Russian "suggestions" which for that unhappy Baltic State, must seem terrifyingly reminiscent of the "suggestions" made to Slovakia by Hitler.

It shows intense diplomatic activity in the Bolshevik capital, with affiliated envoys of neighbouring States obeying peremptory summons to attend "negotiations" at the Kremlin. It shows intense flirtation with Turkey, whom both Germany and Russia wish to wean from the Anti-Agression Front. It shows Hitler, through his envoy, Herr von Ribbentrop, eating humble pie before a mightier Dictator. Germany, unwillingly, has accepted a delineation of Russo-Polish frontiers which, unhappy as the consequences are to Poland, may prove even unpalatable for the Third Reich.

Let those nations who fear that the fate of Austria, of Czechoslovakia and of Poland may soon be their fate look at Britain.

They will see a people united in their determination that the age of Nazism must vanish. They will see not only a people of an island, but the peoples of an Empire so vast that it covers one-fifth of the earth's surface, so strong that the world must breathe thankfully that it is a democracy—indeed, in their determination to resist aggression.

They will see men and women of every class in this great historic occasion standing by at their posts of duty.

They will see a financial sacrifice unparalleled in the history of the world—unparalleled, yet but touching the fringe of an Empire's great resources.

They will see an Empire, calm, confident and resolute, an Empire which loves peace and democracy dearly enough to fight for them.

There are no weaknesses on the Democratic Front.

SOYA

The Bean With 300 Uses

by

A. P. L. WHYTE

LAST WEEK the Medical Department in Hongkong issued recipes for utilising Soya Beans.

Not very exciting, I'll admit. Most people think vaguely of the Soya as a pod-like affair on which millions of Chinese (being queer) mainly live. Others suspect that we ourselves sometimes eat it in sauces.

But the scientist, dietician and agriculturist know that it is the most useful food plant in the world. That it can assure a country at war against starvation and a country waging peace against malnutrition. That it has 300 known industrial uses—from the making of paint, varnish and plastics to the production of munitions. That "a country growing Soya provides food for its people, its cattle and its guns."

THE Chinese always have known a thing or two. But, as usual, Europe was about thirty centuries late in wondering how some of them could manage a twelve-hour day of heavy work on a diet of Soya beans alone. The experts took some Soya beans home and had a good look at them.

This is what they found: Soya has the highest protein and fat content of any food existing. In other words it has a higher concentration of nourishing and energy-making elements. It has three times as much protein (or "meaty" substance) as beef or salmon and is the most perfect substitute there is for meat. It has all the necessary salts and vitamins for the human diet. And from it can be made scores of substitute foods, ranging from milk and butter which would deceive a cow to bread and soup.

Put briefly, if Hongkong were growing sufficient Soya but had no other vegetables, no wheat and no meat, it could continue to exist happily and healthily and without monotony.

A FEW years ago most of the world simultaneously realised the value of Soya, and tried to grow it. Germany tried especially, and failed. America tried and now cultivates five or six million acres. Britain tried, failed at first, and then succeeded: a typically British time-table.

Ministry of Agriculture experts said it couldn't be done. Mr. J. L. North, late curator of the Botanical Gardens, Regent's Park, said it could. And after 20 years of experiment with hundreds of types of Soya it was.

In experimental plots he tested and acclimatised varieties of the bean and, after heart-breaking years of failure, produced four excellent types which would grow in Britain's un-Chinese climate. To-day his types are springing up all over Britain and producing yields which beat the American bean hollow in protein content. Tomorrow Britain could have millions of acres under Soya. And, if they have any sense, shall.

Several leading agriculturists have suggested that part of the sugar-beet subsidy should be transferred to Soya.

It would not be necessary for long, they say. Just until the market woke up to the never-ending uses of the bean and began to absorb it in quantity.

NOT such a fantastic idea. Soya has fifty times the uses of beet. Dieticians say that malnutrition could be ended in England (and two million families will tell you it exists) by this cheapest form of concentrated nourishment existing. A small daily allowance of some sort of Soya to the unemployed table would see to that. It would insure against wartime shortage. It would replace imported foods and even industrial raw materials.

Here are a few of the many foods you can make from Soya:

Milk (equal in value, similar in taste, to cow's milk and especially valuable for children).

Butter and cheese,

Egg substitute (a 1lb. Soya-flour loaf equals 2lb. of meat and a 1/2lb. wheat loaf),

Coffee and chocolate and confectionery,

Bread,
Soups,
Sauces, salad oil, ices. . .

THEN you have the industrial uses to which its oil can be put. In America Henry Ford is boosting Soya as the industrial raw material which will save agriculture. He has thousands of acres sown with Soya and from it he makes a plastic material as strong as steel and light as wood which he uses for gear-knobs, steering-wheels, light-switches and dozens of other parts. He foresees the day when motor-bodies will be fashioned from it.

That is one industrial product of Soya. Here are others: soap, glycerine (and explosives), paint, lamp-oil, lubricants, ink, candles, artificial rubber, linoleum, waterproof substances, insulators, and even artificial wool. These are a few only of the 300 known uses.

It has been said that a country can be self-supporting if it has iron, coal, wood—and Soya.

When all the human food and industrial products have been extracted from this accommodating vegetable the stalk remains. But even this is not wasted, for from it can be made cattle food and fertilisers.

GRIN AND BEAR IT By Lichty

"—and then he took me to meet his family, and his father not only disapproved of me—he recognized me!"

Buckled Line

"I was informed that, owing to the insuperable difficulties of transport, the seriously wounded are left upon the field."

THE little Kwangtung village lay glittering in the sun.

A baby boy squalled, screwed up his oblique brown eyes, set in a plump and flaccid little face, the hanging jowls giving him rather the appearance of an elderly and dissipated adult.

Baby's home is the flimsy palm-leaf hut common to the village, but his father and mother are fortunate beyond the common luck.

They own the terraced rice-field in which they at the moment patiently toil and sweat; and they are not in debt.

Ah Sun straightens her back, shades her eyes as she gazes towards the mounting and pitiless sun; she yells a cry which to the uninitiated or unaccustomed ear is raucously harsh, but to the sturdy young mate it tells of affection and maternal pride.

She ambles on her short, deep-tanned legs towards the scene of infantile clamour, snatches up and comforts her little son, whose din immediately ceases, and who beams a fat and dimpled smile, curling his tiny fingers in happy satisfaction.

Ah Sun bears him to the rice-field, and he contentedly lies upon a little heap of cotton cloth and rice-straw under the sheltering shade of the tall and stately bamboo grove.

He gazes through the gently swaying leaves into the cloudless sky, or watches with infant curiosity the ungainly, leisurely gait of the buffalo working to and fro through the incredible green of the terraced fields; while his progenitors sweat and toil shelterless under that same sun. So harmless, so contented, so useful a little clan.

Before Lin To can walk he will sit safely and happily on the neck of that formidable-looking but docile and gentle beast; before he is five years old he will imperiously govern the animal's every procedure.

Lin To is now fourteen and, although the times are peaceful, still military necessities even of so unwarlike a country as his, are insatiable and unavoidable.

Lin To must go for a soldier. Father and Mother—they now have four youngsters—make the best of matters in their philosophical and innately uncomplaining fashion, give their first-born much good advice as to his demeanour in a large city—and plant young rice.

Lin To has never seen a town, large or otherwise. He arrives with his dusty, weary draft, in that city of awful din, Canton; terrified by the raging, ceaseless, erratic, irresponsible traffic, hushed by the sharp-flung, only partly comprehensible commands, miserable in his totally unaccustomed surroundings.

He hates his shambling uniform of dark mustard yellow, the ill-fitting, string shoes irk his feet. He longs childishly—and he is scarcely out of childhood—for the freedom of his homeland, the unconventional village where a pair of scanty pants sufficed for raiment. The towns and districts the hawking lawless city.

He cannot satisfy his superiors and the mechanism of a rifle constitutes his Waterloo.

But he can outmatch his entire company and remain fresh and timidly cheery at the end of the most wearisome "troop-hardening" route. Some measure of contentment returns, however, when he is detailed to the car of drive tiny Szechuan ponies—a chestnut, two skewbalds, an off-white and a coal black little devil of a stallion. Lin To likes the tending of the animals, and wonders musingly if the buffalo has calved this Spring . . .

IN far Shansi. The line, sorely and bitterly pressed, has at last given way.

Not all the bitter determination, not the grim desire for retaliation upon rape and murder and the cruel ill-treatment of unoffending defenceless countrymen; not the recollection of threats of punishment should the line cede—nothing can overcome this overwhelming preponderance of mammoth steel and iron.

Fairly equipped as was the little band, no artillery was there to comfort and sustain. Bayonets against tanks! Swords against 50's; against the deadly rattle of numberless machine guns!

Lin To lay and gasped. His battered old steel helmet nearby, ironically garlanded with flowering sprays and tendrils, of which the scent still lingered, with blossoms of dark green foliage; not, alas, the quoniam of a conqueror.

Dusk was deepening. The enemy had passed beyond. Slowly, cautiously, as silently as grinding palm, or letting blood would permit, those of the decimated strong who could steal to their feet, edging in the shadows to the approaching rescue parties.

And those who could not rise, endeavoured so to do. Many a gaping wound gaping wider; many a "walking wounded" changed into a case for rejection by the harassed searchers.

Lin To had seen much in days gone by; valiantly he struggled to his tottering feet—at least to appear a fit component of the walking wounded; with the strenuous aim of these shattered and staggering remnants of humanity.

Lin To fell, and lay awhile, gathering his falling breath. Others around him were similarly striving, but little attention did they—or could they—give to fallen comrades.

Again Lin To, with set teeth and clenched fist, with trembling limbs and sweating brow, with slow and infinite assiduity essayed his dreadful task; and at length stood, swaying it is true, but upon his feet. He uttered the cry which was nearly wrung from him. He must conceal his damage, persuade the bearers that he was worth their labours!

Twice more upon that endless journey across the field did he fall, and twice he forced his falling body upright.

Stumbling and staggering, dripping blood, he reached the goal. The last ambulance was overcrowded, the panting, reeking, exhausted stretcher party had completed their gruesome, repellent task; accomplished that in-exorable selection; grimly and

SAN FRANCISCO has long

SAN FRANCISCO has long been famous for its fine printing. This year, somewhat as an accompaniment to the Golden Gate International Exposition, its presses have been producing some exquisitely printed items in the field of California history and literature. This is one of the best examples

Herein is contained a sketch of the life and work of William Henry Thomes, an author whose name is to-day almost unknown but whose books, published in the sixties, seventies, and eighties of the last century, sold to the number of half a million copies. They were accounts, comprising closely intermingled fact and fiction, of stirring adventures in the California gold rush, in Australia, at sea and elsewhere.

Her chief efforts, however, are employed in duplicating for herself in her home the dictatorial position which she had seen her mother achieve in the Hervey household. Blindly self-willed, she thus becomes guilty of inducing the very conditions against which she had formerly rebelled. Sylvia's story becomes, in this respect, a vivid example of that too-familiar recurrence: the transformation of a freedom-loving rebel into a tyrant as soon as he gains power.

Sylvia-Russell-is-to-be-pitied rather than condemned; in spite of her obvious culpability. Miss Jameson spares no opportunity to show added proof of Sylvia's increasing selfishness and arrogance with the passing years, but the guilt involved is the negative one of her inability to overcome the attitudes ingrained in her throughout a warped childhood. The chief value of the book is unfortunately equally negative: superficially, it may seem to some readers merely a depressing account of the tribulations of a headstrong woman; but there is a warning implicit throughout, for the narrative points unflinchingly to the barrenness of an existence fed only by the salt springs of resentment, selfishness, and despotism.

Your child pictures will be more interesting if they "tell a story." Show the child busy at something—such as this repair job. And don't stand too far back.

VIRTUALLY every parent takes snapshots of the children—and would like to take better ones. It's not difficult to take a good child picture, and there's no subject more appealing. But most of these pictures can be made still better, if attention is paid to a few common, easily-corrected faults.

The commonest faults are: lack of "story" interest, wrong choice of background or setting, subject too far from camera, and movement which blurs the picture.

When you take a picture snapshot will be better. Always take a "cellar" story." Simply give the child something to do—dress a doll, draw a picture, fix a toy wagon wheel, blow soap bubbles. Such activity adds interest to the picture—and also makes picture taking more interesting for the child. Give a small baby a rattle or brightly-colored object to play with—it will arouse his interest, and you will get livelier, more expressive pictures.

Be careful in choosing backgrounds. Look beyond the subject—your camera lens will. Avoid a background that has a definite, obtrusive pattern, such as the side of a clapboarded house. And try for good contrast with the subject. For example, if the child is wearing light-colored

OVERNIGHT NEWS PAGE

Aga Khan's Offer

LONDON, Sept. 29 (Reuter Bulletin).—The Aga Khan has sent another message to his followers, the Ismaili sect of Moslems. The message reads: "To all my brothers in India and other British Dominions, I say a cruel war has been imposed, and it is our duty to co-operate heart and soul for the triumph of His Majesty the King-Emperor."

"Our sincere and complete co-operation will be also the best service of Islam. I beg my brothers in Islam to realize that our best way of serving Muslim interests is by complete co-operation with His Majesty's Government. I have my grown-up son and myself have offered our services."

U-BOAT SUNK

Successful Attack By R.A.F. Plane

LONDON, Sept. 29. A reconnaissance aircraft on the Atlantic patrol described the end of a U-very fine trail of oil was observed on the surface in a series of patches. The trail led due west. Markers were dropped and the U-boat was moving slowly ahead of this point at two knots. After 15 minutes of careful observation, bombs were dropped slightly ahead of and across the foremost oil patch. In the centre of the group of white circles made by the explosion a great quantity of oil suddenly gushed to the surface. The oil then thinned out. Soon such wider trail of oil began moving slowly forward—now about one knot.

"A second attack was made along the oil trail and slightly ahead of it. In the centre of the new white patches of foam created by the explosion, oil again gushed up—this time for 30 minutes. No further movement of any sort was seen."

Warsaw Surrender

GERMAN TERMS REVEALED

LONDON, Sept. 29. The surrender of Warsaw is described in another dramatic message from the garrison there and a communique issued by the German High Command. The message from Warsaw is addressed to all Polish representatives throughout the civilised world and says that after exhausting means of continuing the defence the capital has been compelled to agree to an armistice owing to the addition of the civilian population.

The German High Command has given an assurance that all officers of the city were out of the city and reduced to starvation level because it was unable to communicate with the outside world where some food was still available.

The disarmed garrison will begin leaving Warsaw this evening. The German troops will enter the city today next. About 200 officers and 1,000 men are with the garrison and out 4,000 men are wounded.

Plans For Surrender

RIGA, Sept. 29. An arrival from Warsaw described the chaotic conditions and misery preceding the surrender of the capital. Due to bombardment, whole sections of the city were out of and reduced to starvation level because it was unable to communicate with the outside world where some food was still available.

Artillery destroyed and burned large stores of foodstuffs and the aggravation of starvation was followed by isolated outbreaks of epidemic which, however, were confined to small centres.

It is estimated that 20,000 were wounded, of whom only 2,000 were soldiers. In the past ten days the civilians have stormed the defence council, begging them to surrender and save the unnecessary death of women and children. However, the Council held out until their munitions were exhausted.

The specially poorer quarters suffered most severely. The water and light services having been destroyed more than a week ago, resulting in indescribable misery. The civilian morale was weakened greatly by the departure of the diplomats, which was followed by the Germans shelling the city. Most of the historic buildings have been reduced to ruins. German troops and sanitation corps have been waiting at the gates of the city with medicines and

SOVIET AND REICH FINALLY AGREE ON THE PARTITIONING OF POLAND

Allies Not Worried

Russia and Germany have reached complete agreement with regard to the elimination of Poland as a separate nation and the constitution of new Soviet-Nazi frontiers in the occupied area, as a result of Herr von Ribbentrop's visit to Moscow.

The German version of the meetings, at which the Russian Dictator, M. Stalin, was present, asserts further that the two countries agree that all efforts should be made to end the war between Germany and the Allies, failing which Russia and Germany would consult on appropriate measures.

A mutual assistance pact has been signed between Russia and Estonia following several days of anxiety in the latter country when Soviet planes flew over her territory and warships of the Red Fleet lay off the coast.

The importance of the agreement is the provision of new naval bases for the Soviet in the Estonian islands of the Gulf of Finland through which Soviet ships would pass into the Baltic Sea. Economic terms are also reported to have been made.

A report states that M. Malysky, the Soviet Ambassador in London, affirmed his country's intention to remain neutral to Germany and not to go beyond the provisions already announced in the non-aggression pact with the Reich.

Berlin, Sept. 29. The German news agency says the following communique has been issued: "The German and Soviet Governments have signed a definite settlement of the questions arising from the dissolution of Poland. It will be in the real interests of all nations to end the war between Germany and Britain and France. The two Governments will make joint efforts to attain this aim as soon as possible, and if the war continues, joint consultations will take place between the German and Soviet Governments on the subject of necessary measures."

Ribbentrop Leaves

LONDON, Sept. 29. Herr von Ribbentrop left Moscow at mid-day for Berlin. The Italian Ambassador to Moscow who had an interview with Herr von Ribbentrop in the morning was among those at the airport when he left.

Five-Point Agreement

Berlin, Sept. 29. The Foreign Office announces that Herr von Ribbentrop and M. Molotov have signed a five-point agreement for the partitioning of Poland, and also an economic pact.

"The two Governments will make mutual efforts, if necessary with other friendly Powers, to attain peace as soon as possible, but should the efforts be unsuccessful, the fact that they have established the fact that the two Governments are responsible for continuation of the war, whereupon Germany and the Soviet Union will consult regarding the necessary measures."

Joint Communique

MOSCOW, Sept. 29. The fact that the Soviet and German efforts to ending the war is confirmed in a communique on the Ribbentrop-Molotov talks issued here. The communique, which is signed by M. Molotov and Herr von Ribbentrop, concludes by declaring: "Both Governments will direct their common efforts, if necessary in accordance with other friendly Powers, to attain this aim as early as possible. If, however, the efforts of both Governments remain futile, it will be established thereby that Britain and France bear the responsibility for continuation of the war, and in the event of continuation the Governments of Germany and the Soviet Union will consult each other on the necessary measures."

British Reaction

TOKYO, Sept. 29. A London dispatch to the Japan Times says that the Soviet Ambassador to London, M. Evan Malysky, notified the British Government that the Soviet Union would adhere firmly to its neutral attitude between Britain and Germany.

With regard to Germany, the Soviet Ambassador was understood to have stated that the Soviet Union would not go beyond the existing non-aggression pact.

The present assurance has been given by the Soviet Ambassador in reply to the Foreign Secretary, Lord Halifax's inquiry concerning the Soviet Government's intention in invading Poland.

Reich Pays Heavily For Aid

LONDON, Sept. 29. Although no official reaction in regard to the Russo-German Pact is yet available, it is pointed out in well-informed circles, says a diplomatic correspondent, that Mr. Chamberlain in a recent statement said that Russia's action would not influence the determination of Britain and France to prosecute the war until their aims are realized; second, while suggesting consultations between friendly Powers for settlement of the war between Britain, France and Germany, the Russo-German Pact excludes interference in the Polish settlement.

doctors, ready to march in—United Press.

Officers Hunted

MOSCOW, Sept. 29. A Red Army communique states that six Polish officers attacked Russian guards in the Ukraine. "Three of the Polish officers were killed on the spot and the other three were captured. They will be shot."

"The merciless extinction of these Polish officers is proceeding satisfactorily,"—Reuter.

reached in Moscow, third, although the pact envisages continuing the war, it only provides for consultations between Germany and Soviet Russia, in other words Germany would have to pay for Russia's eventual military help by further concessions; fourth, although it is obvious whom the Germans and Russians have in mind by the expression "friendly Powers," it would not be easy to get many neutrals to take the proposed initiative as it would amount to endorsing, or at least condoning the rape of Poland.

It would be almost needless to say that the British Government will immediately consult the French Government regarding the attitude they will observe towards the Russo-German bargain.

The Soviet relations towards the Estonian Government is only another indication as to how closely Stalin is adopting Hitler's methods.

Policy Unchanged

LONDON, Sept. 29. The new Soviet-German Pact has left Britain unmoved. The War Cabinet will meet to discuss the new situation and an official pronouncement will be made at present. However, well-informed quarters believe that this new bogey is an attempt to split the British and French solidarity and is regarded as another campaign of manoeuvre and propaganda.

The French attitude towards the new Pact remains unchanged. The new partition of Poland gives Germany more than contained in the previous agreement, but the centres in Poland remain in Soviet hands.

Allies Not Worried

LONDON, Sept. 29. Hitler has opened the anticipated peace offensive, brandishing a scarcely veiled threat of Soviet aid for Germany against France and Britain if they refuse to yield to the Führer's demand to cut off the war. The only reliable indications are that Britain will flatly reject the demand and reaffirm their determination to prosecute the war until the primary war aims are achieved, namely the downfall of Hitlerism.

Allies will ignore the threat of Soviet aid because the authorities feel that in the first place the Soviet is not wholeheartedly behind the move. Second, even if Stalin sincerely desired it he would be unable to effectively aid Germany either militarily or economically enough to greatly influence the course of the war. Third, neither Hitler nor Stalin trusts one another sufficiently to permit effective military co-operation. Fourth, Hitler cannot be too secure from the Soviet emerging at his back door into the Baltic through Estonia.

Also With The Hounds

LONDON, Sept. 29. A diplomatic telegram from authoritative Soviet circles in London that M. Ivan Malysky, who saw Lord Halifax on Wednesday, informed him of the Soviet's intention to maintain her policy of neutrality and that she is prepared to accept the British proposals to open trade negotiations as envisaged when Mr. Robert Hudson visited Moscow.

German Influence Reduced

LONDON, Sept. 29. While the Russo-German Treaty naturally forms the main news of the day in Britain, there is no disposition to exaggerate its consequences. One commentator humorously remarked that the position following the pact now is that the Russian is master of the Baltic and the North Sea and Germany is master of the Kiel Canal.

The Evening Standard commenting on the "necessary measures" envisaged in the pact in case of the war continuing says that these measures may mean one or two things, either a full military alliance of Germany and Russia or it may mean that Germany shall continue to bear the brunt of war as hitherto, while Russia stands by as a benevolent neutral. If the first interpretation be true, the paper says, it would mean that the war will be transferred from the European to the world stage. There would be few neutrals in such a contest.

On the other hand if the second interpretation is correct, Stalin and Hitler would continue to watch each other with the uneasy eyes of men who know exactly how little faith can be placed in the other's word or action.

German Offensive Awaited On The Western Front

LONDON, Sept. 29. French opinion appears now to be in favour of the idea that the expected German offensive will first be aimed to recover German territory, especially around Saarbrücken, the loss of which is a severe economic blow.

Military critics endeavouring to estimate Germany's military strength believe that the old Reichswehr provided a good supply of officers and non-commissioned officers for the first 36 divisions formed when Hitler ordered resumption of conscription. With so large and rapid expansion, the supply of fully trained junior officers and non-commissioned officers is bound to be inadequate.

It is also considered that Germany's deficiency in certain essential materials, which is already visible in some German aircraft, must make itself felt in replacement of arms and equipment necessitated by war wastage.

Holland is reported to be taking every precaution against invasion. The levels of the canals have been flooded at a moment's notice. Some parts are already flooded. The roads leading to Germany are provided with anti-tank devices and all sign-posts near the border have been removed.

Casualties Low

LONDON, Sept. 29. According to the Paris newspaper, Excelsior, fewer lives have been lost during the first week of this war than in the last. The casualties on the battlefield were much smaller than the number caused by transportation.

China War Peace-Feelers

TOKYO MIGHT ACCEPT U.S. MEDIATION

TOKYO, Sept. 29. Referring to Dr. Wang Chung-hui's statement to the United Press expressing the Chungking Government's readiness to respond to possible mediation in the Sino-Japanese conflict by President Roosevelt, the spokesman of the Foreign Office declared this morning that the peace terms enumerated by the Chinese Foreign Minister are similar to those set forth in Prince Konoye's statement.

He said that Prince Konoye's principles form the basis on which Mr. Wang Chung-hui is developing his peace movement.

Asked by a foreign correspondent whether the Chinese Foreign Minister's terms would be agreeable to Japan, the spokesman said, "Personally I do not take it so seriously, nor am I interested in it."

Asked by another correspondent whether the peace terms enumerated among Chinese leaders in Chungking, the spokesman said that he was not surprised at Dr. Wang Chung-hui's suggestions for possible American mediation.

"If Wang Chung-hui meant it seriously, he ought to have broached it to somebody else instead of to a newspaperman," the spokesman said. He admitted, however, that it might have been intended as a bait d'essai.

Spokesman Rejects Suggestion

SHANGHAI, Sept. 29. Dr. Wang Chung-hui's statement to the United Press reflects Chungking's psychology resulting from the "precarious condition" of Chiang Kai-shek's regime, Mr. Ken Tsurumi, the Japanese Embassy spokesman, declared at the Press conference this afternoon.

Dr. Wang Chung-hui told the reporter that this was an opportune moment for American mediation in the Sino-Japanese dispute. The conflict, however, is a question between China and Japan, which will be settled directly between the two countries, said Mr. Tsurumi.

"The Japanese Government have been adhering to a policy that will not accept any mediation or intervention by a third party," the spokesman continued. Mr. Wang said that Japan is "encircled by countries pledged for the enforcement of treaties," but any one familiar with conditions in the Far East will not place much reliance on such a claim.

"Military operations in China have ended in a continual rout of Chinese. The majority of Chinese towns are in Japanese hands. When retreating from Huaihow, Chiang said it was a strategic withdrawal. It was a strategic withdrawal from Nanking and from Hankow. Now it is a strategic withdrawal from Chungking."

"The world knows Chungking cannot resist Japan. This leaves three courses for Chungking to follow; the first to create a conflict between a third Power and Japan; the second to continue resistance with the assistance of third Powers; the third to induce a third Power to mediate. The European war has made the adoption of the first and second courses impossible, with Powers unable to assist China materially. This forced Chungking to draw its trump card and implore America for intervention."

"That the United States is aware of Japan's firm resolution to settle the present conflict through direct negotiations is apparent by the reticence in American circles on Dr. Wang's statement."

"It is unlikely that Washington will fall for Chungking's trick. Chungking is confronted with an extremely precarious condition following the cutting off of the possibility of third-power assistance by the outbreak of the European war, coupled with the increasing popularity

LAWN BOWLS LEAGUE

TIES RETAIN INTEREST

Third Division Title Should Be Decided

(By "Abe")

Fixtures in the First Division of the Lawn Bowls League will be completed this afternoon when the four remaining matches are decided. Chief interest will be centred on the results of two matches, (1) Civil Service C.C. v. Club de Recreo "A" and (2) Indian R.C. v. Kowloon Docks.

To date, the Club de Recreo "A", the champions, have not dropped a single point in the whole programme. If they win this afternoon at Happy Valley, they will have won every match this season—a record which, I understand, has only been accomplished once in the history of the League, by Kowloon Docks.

Peculiarly enough, Kowloon Docks, who were such a power in the First Division of the League in years gone by, will be fighting hard this afternoon for two points which may yet save them from relegation. At the moment they are two points behind the Club de Recreo "B". If they win this afternoon against the Indians and the Recreo "B" lose to the Craigengower C.C. as is quite likely, the two teams will tie with the same number of points for the bottom position in the frame.

DIFFICULT POINTS

I am afraid, however, that the Docks will find it difficult to get these two points. They have to go to Sookunpo to play this game, and everyone knows how good the Indians are on their own green. But if they happen to beat the Indians and the Recreo "B" lose, the position will be very interesting. In that case, the two teams will probably play off to decide which will be relegated, though as far as shots are concerned, the Portuguese are in a much better position.

What ought to be the best game of the day and, strangely, the only one in the First Division which has no bearing whatsoever on the League, is that between the Kowloon B.C.C. and the Kowloon C.C. With the advantage of green, the former team ought to take the points.

THIRD DIVISION

Though they have to go to North Point to play the Hongkong Electric R.C., the Club de Recreo ought to clinch the Third Division championship this afternoon. As the teams stand at present, the Portuguese need only one point to be absolutely certain of the Shield; but, of course, if the Kowloon C.C., their nearest rivals, should fall down in their game against Stanley this afternoon, the Club de Recreo can afford to lose their remaining two games and yet win the championship.

Indications are that the Club de Recreo will not have to wait any longer for the Shield as they should defeat the Hongkong Electric this afternoon.

The programme and the players selected are as follows:

FIRST DIVISION

Craigengower v. Recreo B
Bowling Green v. Kowloon C.C.

Civil Service v. Recreo A
Indians v. Kowloon Docks

THIRD DIVISION

Yacht Club v. Hongkong F.C.
Electric v. Recreo
Craigengower v. Bowling Green
Stanley v. Kowloon C.C.

PACKING UP TO GO HOME

The English tour of the West Indian cricketers ended abruptly last month owing to the threatening international situation, leaving five matches unplayed. C. B. Clarke, J. E. D. Sealey, E. A. Williams and T. Johnson are shown packing in their London hotel the day before they sailed from Greenock for Montreal. Subsequent events have proved the wisdom of the manager's decision to end the tour and return home. L. Constantine and E. A. Marindale were the only two players who remained in England.

Boxing Title Retained

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (Reuter).—Joey Archibald, weighing 12½ lbs., of the Providence University medical student, retained the world featherweight boxing title to-day by outpointing Harry Jeffra, 7 st. 12½ lbs., of Baltimore, the former bantamweight champion, in a 15-round fight. The decision was unpopular.

TURF MEN DOING THEIR BIT

News of people well known in the sporting world who are doing their bit for their country include many jockeys and trainers. E. and D. Smith are doing hard manual labour with their eldest brother Charlie on their Berkshire farm. Gordon Richards is despatch riding and superintending his carrier pigeons. The Newmarket trainers Geoffrey Barling, George Colling, High Sidebottom and Van Cusum have joined the Artillery and so have young Jellis and his brother-in-law, George Archibald.

Fred Rickaby has long been qualified to be an R.A.F. pilot and his brother, "Buster" is in the Artillery. Their father, who was Lord Derby's brilliant jockey and on to the road to the championship, was killed in the last war. Fulke Walwyn has been called up in the Reserve and Frank Furlong has joined the Air Force. Bruce Hobbs is in the Yeomanry and Evan Williams is in an anti-aircraft unit with Danny Morgan and Sean Magee.

Some of the very little men may be harder to fit in, though during the last war Kenny Robertson, a very miniature Gordon, got in the infantry and carried a pack that appeared to be heavier than himself.

HAGEN OUT OF ACTIVE GOLF PLAY

"I'm All Washed Up", He Says

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Walter Hagen, one of the most famous golfers the world has ever seen, is about to begin fading out of the golfing picture, at least as far as regular competition in major contests is concerned. Discussing his future during a talk about the recent Walter Hagen Anniversary Best-ball Tournament, played here, in which he and Gene Sarazen finished in fourth place, "The Hag" declared "I'm all washed up."

"I'm going to play for fun in a tournament or two occasionally, but it's too hard to keep in playing shape any more. Anyway, I've had my share of championships. I figure I've averaged about two a year for 25 years and I'm ready to call it a day. But it's a great game isn't it?" he said.

WON MANY TITLES

It certainly has been a "great game" for Hagen. The records show that he won the U.S. Open championship twice, the Western Open five times, the P.G.A. title five times, and the British Open four times—in addition to some 40 other titles. His terrific drives and great approaches have been seen around the globe—in faraway places such as China, Hawaii, Australia. "The Hag" has thrilled hundreds of thousands of golfing enthusiasts because, win or lose, he always put on a great show.

Hagen is generally recognised as the greatest money maker professional golf ever known. He has earned a century out of the game. He made $5,000 in a match with Bobby Jones, the twenty-eight-year-old Southerner might haul the match out of the fire.

U.S. Title Captured By Texan Star

Betty Jameson Defeats Dorothy Kirby

DARIEN, Conn., Aug. 26.—Sturdy Betty Jameson, who insists she can't putt, rapped in a twenty-eight-footer for a winning birdie 3 on the thirtieth green, banged in a fifteen-footer for a vital half in the birdie 4's on the thirty-first, and thereby became the first Texan ever to win the national women's golf championship.

The twenty-year-old star from San Antonio had to go three more holes to defeat Dorothy Kirby, of Atlanta, 3 and 2, in their thirty-six-hole final of the forty-third title tourney at the Woe Burn Club. But for Betty and the gallery of 1,200 that trailed this brilliant match, she had sealed the slim Southerner's doom with those two putts.

Miss Jameson had been 4 up at the end of the morning eighteen holes, when she shot a sparkling 78 and took the lead, never to lose it again, on the fourth hole. She looked an easy winner then, but when she needed forty-one strokes to play the outgoing nine in the afternoon and lost half her margin, there were many who felt the courageous, nineteen-year-old Southerner might haul the match out of the fire.

In the face of this final threat, Miss Jameson never wavered. Having won the twenty-seventh by belting two beautiful wood shots to the green, she played for her pars and got halves in the twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth. Then came the thirtieth, and Miss Jameson slapped on iron up twenty-eight feet from the cup. Miss Kirby went her six feet better. But it was Betty, who studies every putt as if it were going to be her last one, who rolled the ball into the hole, and she was back to 3 up.

There are seven attractive events on the card, the majority being sprinting contests. The five furlong track in Macao is better than any in one respect, for there is not that nasty "hill" and the course is of an even width right round.

In the opening event, the Colowan Handicap over five furlongs, I fancy Shanghai 4 with Courneur Bleu and Hohenfels in the rear.

We shall see a good scramble in the Praia Grande Handicap (five furlongs) and it looks to me a toss up between Cloudy Star and Iron Knight, the former being a choice.

The handicapper assigned nine ponies to the first section of the Lappa Handicap (six furlongs) for "E" class China ponies and it is not to be expected that all will weigh out. As National Dignity does not appear to be right, I prefer Luck Eleven, but be careful with Perna Cat. King's Parade holds the post of honour, but I am afraid the of slicker does not like the business. Mac's Adventure, if slow may be a menace to all the starters.

"GIFT" TO CLOWNER

The Porto Cerco Handicap for "D" class over six furlongs should be a gift to Clowner provided of course the brown gelding reproduces the same form shown at Happy Valley last Saturday. Double Chance will give a good run for the money, but Gold Sovereign, I hate to say, is not looking well. National Anthem is overdue for a win.

On a firm going I cannot see anything to lick Fairy Auk in the Stewards' Cup over the mile and should the course be soft, your money is quite safe on Fairy Auk. Rothney Bay is dangerous provided the jockey can draw 135 lbs. Victory Lane is not bad if the blackie behaves himself, that is not to give any "ender."

We have seven Happy Valley starters in the second section of the Lappa Handicap (five furlongs) and Bogey has every prospect of making his acquaintance with the Judge. Old Fashioned and The Succanee should be able to fill the lower positions in frame. Dow-Jones has been whispered as the one to have your money on, but I think the chance is very remote.

The Consolation Stakes is a scurr over half-a-mile for China ponies "C" class that have started and have not won at this meeting. Being pot entries, one has to make his own choice.

Bosses of Ambers and Armstrong Suspended

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Eddie Mead and Al Weill, managers of Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers, were suspended by the New York State Athletic Commission to-day for "conduct detrimental to boxing," but the fistic fathers turned their backs on the "charges" that Mead made after last week's lightweight title fight.

The commission announced that its meeting, open to newspapermen, was for the purpose of "investigating" statements Mead made concerning Referee Arthur Donovan's officiating of the fight, which Ambers won after five rounds were taken from Armstrong for low punching. He presented his charges, among which was one that Donovan was "incompetent and should have his licence taken away." When he was finished, the commission decided there was nothing to them.

The two managers were suspended, the commission said, because their antics, the night of the fight "tended to create disorder."

At various times during the bout, both climbed onto the apron of the ring and exchanged shouted words with Donovan.

Mead was suspended for a year and a month, and Weill for four months, but the commissioners then felt they would temper "justice with mercy" and agreed to lift the suspensions for thirty days prior to and including the scheduled bout between Armstrong, and Ambers for the welterweight title, slated for sometime in early November.

Donovan was summoned, but was not asked to refute Mead's charges.

NANCY

SIX AND EIGHTPENCE

I want to make my will, Lord Henry, but in all my long experience I have seldom known a hang-over prove fatal. Are you not cognizant of Rose's Lime Juice?"

"I think so, why?"

"Because the said Rose's, whether taken as 'Gin and Lime' or consumed before bed, does, by virtue of its therapeutic properties, neutralize the after-effects of alcohol and render hangovers null and void."

"Is this true, Meredith?"

"I am speaking, Lord Henry, as your solicitor."

"Thank you, Meredith, from the bottom of my heart. You have given me fresh hope. Believe me, when I do come to make my will you shall not be forgotten."

"I am indeed sorry to hear that, Lord Henry, but it was only last night that I had to catch sight of you in Regent Street on the way to a taxi-cab, round before on what appeared to be a hang-over."

Australians Win Double With Ease

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 28.—The threat of a brilliant Australian doubles team hung heavy over America's Davis Cup holders again to-night as Jack Bromwich and Adrian Quist from "down under" swept off a straight set victory over Yugoslavia and took a 2-1 lead in the final inter-zone cup tie.

Decisively outplaying Ferenc Puncer and Franko Kukuljevic, the Aussies won almost as they pleased, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3. Only a tennis miracle now can save the Yugoslavs, for the first of to-morrow's singles matches will pit the world-ranking Bromwich against Drago Mitic, a comparatively inexperienced youngster.

Puncer, who upset Bromwich on Thursday, was fully as brilliant as either of the Australians to-day, but his final match with Quist to-morrow will be only an exhibition unless Mitic can win.

BETTER VOLLEYERS

Two weak spots were apparent in the Yugoslavs' tennis armour this afternoon and the Aussies took full advantage of both from the very start, when they reeled off the first three games, never to be headed thereafter.

Quist and Bromwich found they could outvolley the European zone champions at the net. Repeatedly they drove their opponents away from the barrier.

In addition, they kept the pressure on Kukuljevic, who was a world-beater in spots but who just couldn't put enough of these spots together. He was forced into forty-four errors, just twice as many as any of the others committed.

Nazis Annoyed In Hungary

Political Truce Broken, Complaint

BUDAPEST, Sept. 29 (Reuters).—All members of the Nazi Party walked out of Parliament to-day, Herr Hubay the leader, announcing that his Party would withdraw from parliamentary discussions.

Herr Hubay complained that the Prime Minister had broken his promise of a political truce and was not allowing full freedom for the Nazi Party.

Herr Hubay's vote, of non-confidence in the Government was defeated, and Parliament adjourned until Thursday next.

The romance of Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea comes in for a good share of the spotlight in "Union Pacific," Cecil B. de Mille's epic story of America's first transcontinental railroad, opening at the Queen's and Alhambra Theatres to-day.

HONGKONG STARTS WAR-FUND DRIVE

The British Red Cross Society and St. John's War Organization, or more shortly the British War Organization, is now beginning to forge ahead both with work and in receiving subscriptions.

Its name is repeated in full above as it does not appear widely known yet. Appeal notices with the shorter title for affixing to cars and trade vans are now making their appearance. Five thousand of these have been most generously presented by the "South China Morning Post" for which the Organizers express their grateful thanks.

In addition to the Work Centre mentioned previously, which incidentally has already made three dozen pairs of socks and several scarves, the following have started or are beginning next week.

Wednesdays 10.00 a.m.—Noon. Tai Koo Club—Quarry Bay, in charge Mrs. Finnie.

Wednesdays 10.00 a.m.—Noon. United Services Recreation Club, Kowloon, in charge Mrs. Phillips.

Thursdays 9.30 a.m.—Noon. Prison Officers Club, in charge Mrs. Wilcox.

Sewing Machines Wanted

Knitting only is being done at present at these centres as the supply of material for bandages etc., which has been ordered, has not yet been received. When this most important work commences a number of sewing machines will be required, and it would be deeply appreciated if those who would be willing to lend them to the various centres, would be kind enough to send their names to the Secretary, British War Organization (Mr. A. Raymond), Marina House, Queen's Road.

On the initiative of the Members, the Sports Club gave a Cocktail Party on Wednesday, September 27 at which Mr. Max Mallin gave his well known display of magic sleight of hand which kept the guests spellbound.

During the evening a collection was made for the British War Organization Fund and the splendid sum of $528 was realised. For this contribution the enterprise of Major Manners, the Committee and the Members of the Sports Club must be acknowledged and their efforts applauded.

New Controller Of Food

Mr. W. J. Carrie has been appointed to be Chairman of the Urban Council. He has also been appointed to be Controller of Food.

Dr. P. S. Selwyn-Clarke has been appointed to be an Official Member of the Executive Council as from Thursday.

Sub-Lieutenant G. H. Bond has relinquished his Commission in the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force.

TOURISTS DEFEATED

Heavy Scoring In Match With Eastern

Winning the toss the tourists obtained a slight advantage at the Club ground yesterday, as there was a fair wind blowing, but this did them no material good and they were defeated by seven goals to three.

The visitors gained ground by their fast open tactics, but the Eastern side obtained the mastery and opened their score after nine minutes, Cheung Kam-hoi scoring with only the goalkeeper to beat from a fine centre by Chung Yung-sam. Play was very even for a while after this goal, but Eastern ultimately went further ahead through the same player.

Eastern were more than a match for the tourists' greatly changed side who persevered with futile tactics.

The third goal, once again for Eastern, came in the twelfth minute when after a goal had been disallowed for offside Cheung Kam-hoi completed his hat-trick with a great shot, and almost on the half time whistle the same player added a fourth.

After the interval play was much more even, the touring side once more displaying their fitness, but despite this Eastern were put five up by Cheung Yue-ling. Ting, the tourists' goalkeeper was penalized for carrying a few minutes later any Hsu King-shing netted again for Eastern.

The tourists' account was opened by Hoi, and his goal brought about a minor revival in the side, and despite heroic efforts by the Eastern defence, scored again from a penalty awarded against When Ying-kuen for hands, the kick being taken by Wing. From this point neither side dominated the play which went from end to end rapidly. Time and time again, however, the tourists' goalkeeper, Ting was well tried and his great exhibition brought generous applause from the spectators. Once flinging himself on the ball he was nearly badly hurt but returned following attention on the touchline.

The tourists scored again through Dung following a fast passing movement in front of the Eastern goal, he light was now falling rapidly and play noticeably slowed down and the Eastern team renewed their efforts to score and were rewarded by a goal from Chung Yung-sam.

The tourists were not so disgraced as the score might suggest, though in the first half their close passing was easily no match for the ready tackling of the Eastern half and backs. The tourists' defence had a hard time and came out of it splendidly, the goalkeeper deserving special mention for his fearless tackling when an Eastern forward had only him to beat, in that manner he saved several goals.

Eastern—Lau Hin-hon; Tsang Ching-wai, When Ying-kuen; Leu Chi-tsang, Tsai King-shing, Lo Wai-shum, Chung Yung-sam, Chow Po-wen, Cheung Kam-hoi, Chun Yue-ling, Hsu King-to, Hui-hong, King, Kin, Hui, Tung, Chang, Sing-nem, Goo, Dung, Ioi, Wing.

STOCK MARKET REPORT

Hongkong Stock Exchange Official Summary issued yesterday says: The market is both tickle and disappointing. A certain amount of flirtation has been going on during the week between potential buyers and holders, and although the approaches of the former have not been entirely repulsed, prices offered have been at such a level only a few takers have been found. The transactions during the week do not total an impressive number, nor will they until ideas on both sides become somewhat more reconciled. The underdone market, perhaps, be described as uncertain with an incline to steady.

Shortly before war was declared, anti-aircraft guns in Hyde Park, London, went into action as "enemy" bombers were sighted during a "raid" on London as part of giant air defence exercises, in which over 20,000 men and 1,200 planes took part.

Rock Falls On Family At Cave

THE White family of Bath—father, mother and two young boys—motored over recently from their holiday home at Breane Sands to Cheddar Gorge, Somerset, on a day's outing.

With other holidaymakers, they queued up at the entrance to the famous Gough's Cave, waiting for the time when the cave would be opened to visitors. As the two boys, impatient at the delay, crept round their parents, there was a rumbling from the cliffs above.

The attendant shouted a warning—but it was too late.

A half-ton rock fell 400 feet, splitting into three pieces, on to the group below.

One piece killed five-year-old Arthur John White, outright, knocking his body into the street, and injuring the rest of his family, who live in South Stoke-road, Combe Down, Bath.

Eight other holidaymakers were injured by fragments of rock.

Mr. Frank Luke, of Royal-crescent, Bath, who was standing near the group, said:

"I thought it was a bomb. Everyone tried to rush into the cave, but many were too late."

It is thought that the storms of previous days loosened the rock.

The cave is a favourite spot for holidaymakers. Thousands visit it each season.

Never before has such an accident occurred.

Fiery Cross At Cenotaph

A young man was seen carrying a blazing St. Andrew's Cross near the Cenotaph in Whitehall, recently. He was shouting "Self-government for Scotland."

The cross, which was of wood, had apparently been soaked in paraffin. Subsequently a man accompanied police officers to Cannon-row police station.

Potato Merchant Designs "Terror of the Air"

A MAN who spends his mornings working in the Paris "Covent Garden" and his evenings designing airplanes is entering an airplane in the Coupe Deutsch. He claims that it will be a miniature artillery battery of the air.

The Coupe Deutsch is the French equivalent of the King's Cup. It is flown on October 1.

The potato merchant designer is 40-year-old M. Paul Marten, who, when he has finished sending potatoes to his clients, goes over to a small workshop near the Place de la Republique and helps to put the finishing touches to his "terror of the air."

AMATEUR DESIGNER

M. Marten is an amateur designer, and has always been interested in aircraft. He visualised a light chaser aircraft which would travel at high speed and be equipped with three guns.

He took his rough designs along to a French aircraft designer, M. M. Faven, who perfected the crude design and produced a blue print.

Then came the question of the cost of building the airplane. M. Marten resolved to allow 235 a month-out of the profits of his market business to build the airplane. He and M.

Zoo Has A New Bread

A BREAD which, taken with water, is a complete diet, is being given to animals at the London Zoo.

It is made of wholemeal flour, stone ground so that it retains the vital germ, plus calcium in powder form and soya bean flour.

The proteins of the soya bean, the carbohydrates of the flour, and the calcium, mixed in the correct proportion, are a complete food.

"We give the bread to all animals that eat bread," Dr. Ververs, Superintendent of the Zoo, said. "They thrive splendidly on it."

Winter Baboons

"Look at the baboons in those outside cages. There are no baboons in the world like the London Zoo's."

"We have been feeding them for four years on the special bread, and the last three years they have stayed out in the open all the winter. They could never do that before."

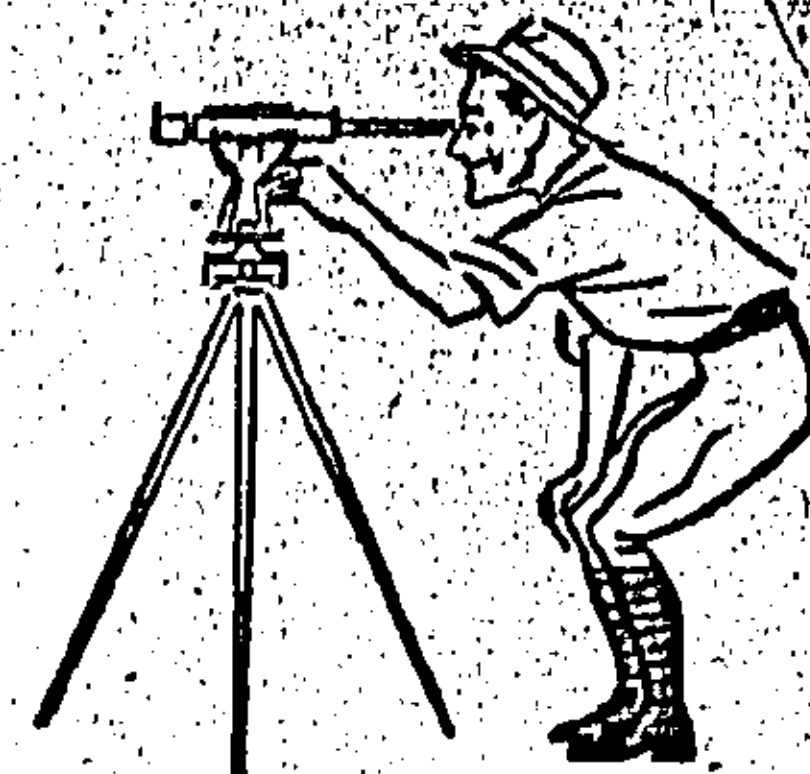

"This bread would be very much better for human beings than ordinary white bread, which has had most of the values of the wheat refined out of it."

"Indeed, I am told that in Canada they have succeeded in producing a flour so refined that it is vitamin-free."

"But we could not sell this bread for human beings. The law says that flour must not be adulterated."

"It would be of tremendous value in time of war, of course."

"Good"—yes, Johnnie Walker is blended from all the finest whiskies of Scotland. "Old"—each of them is matured for years in the wood. So if you want to know why Johnnie Walker is such a popular whisky—there are two reasons for you.

4-IN-1 OUTFIT

TAILORED jacket, skirt, trousers. Add the three together, plus a shirt that matches both skirt and trousers, and you have a complete sports-and-lounging outfit.

You can travel in the neatly gored swing skirt and one-button jacket, teamed up with high-buttoning shirt blouse.

For lounging in the garden, do a take off your tailored jacket, and in quick change from skirt into trousers and blouse, then with the same jacket, and dressed just right for an informal blouse you have a smart "slacking" game of tennis or a round of golf, suit, practical in its masculine look.

Those trousers have net turn-ups, slide fastener side opening, and for wielding a racket or golf club.

They're properly creased, too, just like a man's, so you'll have to ask a husband or father to let you use his trousers-press to keep them neat, or lay them under your mattress when you go to bed!

When you're feeling energetic for the blouse, choose sharkskin after your restful laze in the garden, or shanting.

LESSON SERMON
First Church of Christ,
Scientist, Hongkong
SUBJECT—UNREALITY

The subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Christian Science churches is Monday, October 1st, will be "Un-reality."
The Golden Text will be: "There is that maketh himself rich, yet hath nothing; there is that maketh himself poor, yet hath great riches."
(Prov. 13:7).

Among others the following citations will be read from the Bible:—
"There is none holy as the Lord; for there is none beside thee: neither is there any rock like our God. Talk no more so exceedingly proudly; let not arrogance come out of your mouth; for the Lord is a God of knowledge, ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your lusts.
Submit yourselves therefore to God;
resist the devil, and he will flee from
you. Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up.
Set your affection on things above,
not on things on the earth." 1. Sam.
2:2, 3; Jas. 4:7, 8; 10. Col. 3:2.
The following citations will also be read from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:—"Everything good or worthy, God made. Whatever is valueless or baneful, He did not make;—hence its unreality. All the evidence of physical sense and all the knowledge obtained from physical sense must yield to Science, the immortal truth of all things. Selfishness and sensuality are educated in mortal mind by the thoughts ever recurring to one's self, by conversation about the body, and by the expectation of perpetual pleasure or pain from it;
and this education is at the expense of spiritual growth. If we array thoughts in mortal vestures, it must lose its immortal nature. We should forget our bodies in remembering good and the human face. Good demands of man every hour in which to work out the problem of being." (Pages 525, 493, 269, 261).

The Bishop's Bath To Be Sold By Auction

CLERGYMEN and their wives from all parts of the country recently bid at Fulham Palace for relics of the days when the Bishop of London used a hip-bath, went to bed by the light of candles and had foot-warmers in his carriage.

The fall of the auctioneer's hammer
—Mr. Robert Hawkins, from New Bond Street, conducted the two-day sale—decided whether good solid Victorian furniture which Dr. Wainwright Ingram has used for the past 38 years shall find a new home in a country rectory or be snapped up by dealers.
With the washstands, the bath, the brass candlesticks, the stuffed chairs and footstools were mementoes of his travels.

In response to a resolution passed at the recent Congress of Women's

The purpose is that in the event of existing teachers being called up

AUSTRALIA

DISEASES DUE TO MALNUTRITION

MELBOURNE.
Giving evidence before a Victorian
Select Committee on Child Endowment, Dr. Howard Williams, Superintendent of the Children's Hospital, said that if 40 per cent. of the parents of children attending the hospital had all the knowledge of a dietician their children could not be adequately nourished because it was economically impossible.
Some form of State assistance was needed to the minimum wage worker and the worker on a subsistence wage, with more than two children, if the children were to be properly fed.
Although gross malnutrition was rare in Melbourne, minor diseases were common.

THE "Thin Man," silent, methodical burglar who in the past 15 months broke into 116 houses and defied the combined efforts of the Metropolitan and Essex police to trap him, was sentenced at the London Sessions recently to 21 months' imprisonment with hard labour.

This man of crime owes his arrest not to any blunder in his thieving, but to a kitten.
SILENT AND SWIFT
Tall, with curly hair, and wearing an open-necked shirt,
the "Thin Man," Alfred William Simmons, aged 31, described as a printer, pleaded guilty to a charge of house-breaking at Hornchurch, Essex, and asked that the other 115 cases of burglary and house-breaking should be taken into consideration.
Detective-Inspector Henry
Walter Baker, of the Essex police, said Simmons was a native of Belfast. He had three previous convictions, the last being at the London Sessions in January 1935, when he was sentenced to eight months' hard labour for house-breaking and larceny.

Since Easter of last year the Metropolitan Police on the fringe of Essex and the Rom-ford police had sleepless nights because of his activity in the districts of Romford, Good-mayes, Hornchurch, Barking,
Seven Kings, Chadwell Heath,
and Ilford.
Because of his ability to slip through narrow apertures, he was nicknamed the "Thin Man."
When he was robbing the house at Wingleye-lane, Hornchurch, he was seen by a neighbour putting out a kitten which mewled. The neighbour informed the police, and Simmons, who had already broken into four houses, was caught with the proceeds on him.

Captain Left £200 To Woman For A Talk

MRS. ANN VVYAN, wife of Colonel R. E. Vyvyan, Chief Signal Staff Officer of the Northern Command, India, learned recently that the captain of the ship that brought her home from India in October last had left her £200 in memory of their long talks about the sea.

The bequest is part of the £22,000 will of Captain Arthur
Lee, of York-road, Cheam,
Surrey, commander of the City of Benares, City Line, Ltd.,
Glasgow, who died last June.

Mrs. Vyvyan is ill at her cottage at Starcross, Devon, but her mother said:
"My daughter and her husband met Captain Lee in Karachi. They became great friends. Last October she came home in his ship with her little daughter.
"My daughter is passionately fond of the sea—as practically everyone is down here. She has done a great deal of sailing and racing."
"Captain Lee and she talked often on the voyage about the sea," and after the voyage he visited us here."

LATE NEWS

Exaggerated Nazi Interpretation

LONDON, Sept. 29 (UP).—Despite Nazi interpretations of the new agreement with Russia, reliable Soviet sources in London assert that Russia is determined to remain neutral and that she is now offering to open commercial negotiations with Britain.

The British Cabinet met to-day and discussed the most recent developments. Reliable sources state that Mr. Chamberlain will make a statement in the House of Commons on Monday.

The official view here is that the Russo-German pact is simply a tremendous hoax intended to frighten the Allies and to cause disagreement between France and England.

One official source said the pact "looks more terrific" than it really is. He explained, too, that the Allies a month ago had visualized all the factors existing to-day.

Rejection Of Peace Move

LONDON, Sept. 29 (UP).—There is every indication here that the Allies will reject any peace overtures.

Refugees Flocking To America

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (UP).—The Steamer Manhattan is scheduled to arrive at 4 a.m. on Saturday with a record list of 1,007 passengers. They include Madame Quo Tai-chi and her son.

Britain Will Not Yield

TOKYO, Sept. 30 (Domei).—In connection with the reports that Soviet Russia and Germany have decided to call a peace conference, the British Embassy in Tokyo has issued a statement last night declaring that Britain is not ready for peace on an "unreal, lawless basis."

Mass Air Raids On Changsha

CHANGSHA, Sept. 30 (Central).—Chungsha has been subjected to daily mass raids by Japanese planes since Sept. 27.

It is estimated that at least 200 bombs have been dropped on the city, reducing rows of houses to ruins. Among the cultural institutions destroyed are the Wen Yi Middle School and the Chun Chih College. The ferry landing by the bank of the Ssang River in the eastern suburbs was wrecked.

DEMOCRACY UNSHAKEN

Nazi Peace Attempts Will Be Rejected

Paris, Sept. 29 (UP).—The alliance between Russia and Germany—the greatest pool of military and man power in Europe—has failed to shake the determination of the Allies to halt Hitler and to restore at least those independent states of Poland which have gone down before the Nazi military machine.

Even before Hitler's peace offer, backed by the Red Army's weight, had reached the western capitals, the French Government had made it quite clear that France categorically rejects this or any other peace plan which does not provide for the resuscitation of Poland with her pre-war frontiers.

The war goes on until Hitlerism is upset the Pacific schedule the French Government spokesman declared to-day.

Soviet Material Aid

The threat of Russian material aid to Germany by furnishing oil, wheat and ores, of which the Reich would have been deprived by the Allied blockade, has seriously complicated the Allies' task, without, however, weakening their decision.

Reports of the chaotic condition of Russian railways and airports, and the "known shortage" of Germany's rolls of steel, has convinced the Allies that it will be a long time before Russia is able to make good her promises to keep Germany fully supplied.

Race With Time

Meanwhile, the blockade will continue its historic race against time. General Gamelin and Premier Daladier have studied the texts of the Russo-German accord. General Gamelin's confidence in an ultimate victory is not shaken. M. Daladier was in consultation with Lord Halifax and Mr. Chamberlain by telephone to-day, to confirm the similarity of the British and French governments' viewpoints.

There is not the slightest difference between London and Paris policies. Both have rejected in advance Hitler's peace offer based on the destruction of Poland's integrity.

H.K. Mentioned In U.S. Neutrality Act

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (UP).—In order to avoid any legal argument as to whether they are part of the Pacific Ocean, Hongkong, and the China Sea have been specifically mentioned in the new Neutrality Act, which will be submitted to the U.S. Senate to-day.

This disclosure was made by Senator Key Pittman, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which drafted the new Bill.

The final draft of the Bill permits American aircraft to deliver mail and passengers, and the personal effects of the passengers, to any point in the Pacific Ocean or the China Sea. This decision will permit Pan American Airways to continue operations between San Francisco and Hongkong and between San Francisco and New Zealand, although those two countries are belligerents.

"The provision takes in all stations and stopping places in the Pacific, including Hongkong," said Senator Pittman.

JAPANESE FLIGHT

Sister Of Divine Wind Arriving To-day

On a flight from Japan to Hongkong and return, a Japanese plane, Asahi (Morning Wind), sister plane of the famous Divine Wind belonging to the newspaper Asahi Shimbun, is expected to arrive at Kai Tak about 11 a.m. to-day.

The plane left Osaka at 9.40 a.m. yesterday and arrived at Taihoku, Formosa, a few hours later.

The plane is making the flight on behalf of the Asahi Shimbun and is not carrying passengers. It has a crew of two.

After stopping about a day and a night in Hongkong the plane may attempt a non-stop flight to Japan.

The Japanese-built Divine Wind made a record flight from Tokyo to London in 1937.

Clipper Still Delayed

Owing to adverse weather over the China sea the Pan-American Philippines Clipper which has been held up for four days at Manila, will not continue its flight here. In order not to upset the Pacific schedule the Clipper is turning back from Manila as there is a possibility of her delay longer because of the weather conditions.

Passengers, mail and freight for Hongkong on the Clipper, which was due here on Wednesday, will be brought by the first steamer.

Imperial Mail Delay

The Imperial Airways plane due to-morrow from Bangkok has been delayed and is expected on Monday. The outward bound plane leaves to-morrow.

London, Sept. 29. Another neutral steamer has been sunk off the coast of Norway. It is the first Norwegian steamer which has been sunk since the war started. —Reuter Bulletin.

DARKENING OF HOMES

Evasion of Preparations May Be Checked

Extension of the powers granted to Air Raid Wardens may be sought from the Government. At present wardens have authority to enter only those houses where lights are showing. Wing-Commander A.H.S. Steele-Perkins, Director of Air Raid Precautions, yesterday expressed his intention of discussing with the law officers whether that authority could be extended to permit wardens to enter houses at any time during a blackout to investigate the darkening arrangements.

Last Friday's blackout was seemingly an outstanding success. It is common knowledge that this effect was partly produced by evasion of the lighting regulations rather than by active compliance with them. Many people simply chose to turn out all their house lights and go to the cinema or other places of entertainment. When they returned home they either went to bed in the dark or heedlessly turned on their lights. The exercise could thus not be considered a true index of the public's co-operation.

When it was put to Wing-Commander Steele-Perkins yesterday that policing of the regulations should extend to seeing whether, in houses where the lights have simply been extinguished, preparations had really been made for obscuring the lights under normal living conditions, and that wardens should be charged with seeing, not that the lights were extinguished, but rather that they were lit and properly shrouded, he said that at present the wardens did not have power to enter a house which was apparently properly darkened. He said he had no doubt that people who had evaded their civic duty during the last test would quickly conform to the regulations under real wartime conditions, but he considered their active co-operation in normal times also desirable. He would discuss the matter with the law officers.

violently selected for retention the repulsive, rejected and abandoned those damaged beyond redemption.

Lin To fell full length upon the bloodstained roadway.

A smart young beaver approached and considered, chin in hand. Hastily tore away the ragged tunic, eyes the wound.

Should he? Was it worth while?

A reprimand was his if he brought the overburdened surgeons further hopelessly cases; the ambulances were dangerously overcrowded, as it was no use taking dead men along!

He took a chance, and a battered warrior who was in a pinch, able to stand, was persuaded to do so. Lin To was hoisted into the vacant seat of the ambulance.

The needle with the last half-ounce of morphine was already in the thigh of the already half-conscious soldier when it was hastily withdrawn and the blessed contents of the syringe procured for Lin To that first of all blessings—unconsciousness.
